RE: Syl-la-bles

Dear: George Ward

Congratulations! The children of the Canadian Toy Testing Council (CTTC) have given your toy a CTTC three star “” rating – the highest level. This demonstrates excellence in all areas of function, design, durability, battery consumption and most importantly, play value.

The CTTC is a non-profit organization evaluating toys for over 50 years and presenting the results to parents and consumers. Over 200 media interviews are conducted each year via radio, print, television and the Internet to convey our message about excellent quality toys available in the marketplace.

Since the Council is devoted to informing consumers about great quality toys, we offer an Awards Program to increase consumers’ awareness of top-rated toys. Please contact the CTTC office for more information on promoting your toy through the Council’s Consumer Awards program.

Toy comments and star ratings will be published to the Council’s website www.toy-testing.org, in the 2008 TOY REPORT IN PROGRESS (TRIP), as soon as each toy is rated for the 2008 TOY REPORT. Please get back to us within five days if you have comments or if there is a change to the toy name, price or model number.

The following comment will appear in the 2008 TOY REPORT.

Syl-la-bles
Model Number: TT101
Price: $20-$25

CTTC AGE: 8 +

This board game challenges players to spell the longest word they can beginning with a specific letter of the alphabet. Points are awarded for letters and syllables used in each word. Before you write down antiferromagnetism make sure you can spell it because no points are awarded for words which are spelled incorrectly. The game also includes 100 spelling cards and 100 thesaurus cards each of which includes an easy and difficult challenge. Variations in the rules and the two level challenge cards make this a great family game! which challenges everyone equally. A spelling game for all ages!

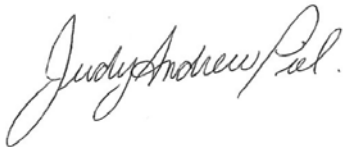

In addition to the Council's promotion of your excellent toys, we have a collaborative project with le magazine enfants Québec, which publishes our results in the French language. To enhance your toys' visibility through le magazine enfants Québec, please send one sample of your three-star toy to the following address:

LE MAGAZINE ENFANTS QUEBEC, 300, rue Arran, Saint-Lambert (Québec) Canada J4R 1K5
